GREENEVILLE

Work has been resumed on North Main street taking up the compressed air pipes in the street. A gang of seven men were at work and they had completed taking up two joints on Friday.

About 500 people enjoyed the annual Sunday school picnic to Ocean Beach on Thursday. The Nebeco II started on time at 10 o'clock with pretty near a capacity crowd. All the refreshments that were for sale on the boat were sold. The weatherman was good to the crowd, the sun coming through the fog soon after the boat arrived at the beach. The success of the picnic is due mostly to the committee in charge, with Oscar W. Carpenter chairman.

Thomas Donovan, the popular Greenville salesman, has returned after a week's vacation on Block Island. Dr. and Mrs. James L. Moriarty of Waterbury were recent Norwich visitors. They are now on a motor trip to St. Johns, New Brunswick, and Canada. Dr. Moriarty is the son of Mrs. James Moriarty of Greenville.

The fans are on edge for the coming game between the home team and the Norwich K. of C., and are confident that their team will bring home the bacon this time.

There was a large turnout at the twilight game last evening.

NORWICH MAN SUED FOR $1,000

F. D. Vergason of this city is made the defendant in a suit for damages of $1,000 brought by Rudolph Uhlman of New York. The papers in the action, which is the result of an automobile accident last March, were filed with the clerk of the superior court on Friday afternoon.

Mr. Uhlman claims that on March 25, 1925, about 8 o'clock in the evening, he was standing beside his motorcycle on the road between Norwich and Willimantic, in the town of Franklin. While he was standing beside the motorcycle, Mr. Vergason came along the road in his automobile and ran into him. He was quite badly injured and his motorcycle was damaged, according to the complaint. He asks damages of one thousand dollars.

VETERANS SHOULD STRAIGHTEN

OUT THEIR WAR RECORDS

Every veteran of the world war from this state who has any doubt that his record in the files of the war department is incorrect is urged by Capt. Thomas J. Bannigan, adjutant of the Connecticut department of the American Legion, to write at once to Washington to make the necessary correction. The time is short and the matter should be given immediate attention. The war department has announced that it will begin soon to arrest alleged draft dodgers throughout the country and that it has prepared a list of names of the men who, it believes, deserted their country in time of need. Ex-soldiers have less than two weeks in which to help the war department clean up any misleading or inaccurate facts about them. Bannigan points out that if it would be regrettable to have the names of volunteers, some of whom died in service, appear with the names of alleged slackers.

There are no records on the records at Washington 173,311 names of men held to be draft deserters. It is unquestioned that a considerable number of them belong to individuals who had an honorable part in the war. These soldiers, marines or sailors were volunteers who entered the service before they were called. Many of them went while the draft law was still in congress. Others followed before draft boards were organized and the official machinery set in motion. They and their immediate relatives and friends were not crossed out either during the stress of wartime work or after the draft law ceased to operate.

The list of guests who have accepted invitations to address the state convention of the American Legion in Bridgeport Aug. 20 and 21 includes General Clarence R. Edwards, former commander of the 15th division and now in command of the northeastern department, and Major General John F. O'Bryan, commander of the New York 27th. Other prominent guests who have notified Captain Bannigan that they will attend the convention are Lieutenant Governor Charles W. Fernald, mayor of Bridgeport; Rev. Francis A. Kelley of Albany, national chaplain of the Legion and known as the "Fighting Chaplain of the 27th division"; R. G. Cholmondeley, director of the war risk insurance at Washington; R. T. Fisher, acting chief of the federal board for vocational education; Major F. H. McKeon, officer in charge of the United States public health service at Allentown. Governor Holcomb is also expected to be present.

It was learned Friday that one of the matters that will come up before the convention will be a request to eliminate from various honor rolls throughout the state the names of men who are not entitled to such honor. It was said that many names on various honor rolls in the state, and in fact, throughout the United States, do not belong on these rolls and are not entitled to such recognition. It was pointed out that on many honor rolls are included the names of men who earned high wages in munition plants and that these names are listed with those of the men who served the government at a dollar a day. A resolution will ask that all the names be checked up and certified and if it is found that certain names do not belong on the rolls that these names be eliminated.

BATTERY D. BOYS PLAN

REUNION FOR AUGUST 22ND

There was a general discussion of the outing plans. A large delegation of Battery D. men will attend the outing from this city, the local arrangements being in charge of George Malcolm, ex-mess sergeant. Soldiers from 28 states of the union served with Battery D., and Mr. Malcolm has already received letters from Mississippi, Tennessee and other states extending to the Battery D. men best wishes for the success of the outing. Battery D. was largely made up of Norwich boys.

The charge against his name is violation of a city ordinance.

Secret of Good Health

All Depends Upon Good Blood And

Good Circulation

Thin, impoverished blood results in pale, sallow complexions, run-down anaemic conditions, lack of strength, energy and ambition. This remedy that has been very successful in this city is Vinol, a non-secret, cod liver and iron tonic, without oil, which, with beef peptones and hypophosphites, acts very quickly in creating thousands of red corpuscles in the blood. It perfects the circulation, increases the appetite, aids digestion, and in this natural manner creates strength, a healthy complexion, vitality, energy and enthusiasm.

POETRY

AND THE WORLD BONE DRY.

Crop of corn a-growing,
The summer sun is shining,
Malt for just the makin'
An' the world bone dry.
An' the world bone dry,
Country got the 'makin'
An' the world bone dry.
Grapes will soon be purplin'
Neath the summer sun,
Wine press there a-rastin'
An' the world bone dry.

A QUEST.

I have not played with Love as other have
Or smoothed her tangled hair, or kissed her eyes
As she went darning through the woods of youth
That fringe so closely on to Paradise
But I have caught the glimmer of her glow
And, though I never touched her, yet
I know
Just how she looks, how red her fragrant mouth
How white her wrists, how soft her skin white go.

Though she is never just beyond my reach.
Just slipping softly up some woodland way
Still have I heard the ripple of her voice
The careless echo of her laugh at play.

Yes, I have always missed her, yet perhaps
I know her better than the ones who stayed
And stilled her dancing feet, and hus-bied
her hair
And stooped to tame her in some forest glade.

Evening Post.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

"Every man is entitled to his opinion."
"Yes," replied Senator Sorghum, "the same as a man is entitled to a composite breed of dog. It may be nothing to be proud of, but it's his if he wants to let him on to it."—Washington Star.
Mr. Blinks—Here's a $75 millinery bill I've just paid, another instance that I fool and his money soon part.
Mrs. Blinks—I know, dear, but just think how fortunate it is that you and one of those who have money.—Boston Transcript.
"Will you accept this portfolio?" inquired the Berlin cabinet maker.
"I don't know," replied the cautious statesman. "Times are so uncertain, maybe I should better make it a suitcase."
—Washington Star.
Church—He's an inventor.
Gotham—Oh! Indeed?
"Yes, and I'll say he's right up to date."
"How's that?"
"Why, he's working on a new kind of seaplane for flying fish."—Yonkers Statesman.
"I know a man who always secures more game than he wants whenever he goes out hunting."
"Then he must be hunting trouble."—
Baltimore American.
"What do you think of the political platforms?"
"I don't mind the platforms. It's some of the performers I object to. You can't blame the stage for the bad actors that get on it."—Detroit Free Press.
"What is your objection to being a presidential candidate?"
"A realization that I have been slighted," replied Senator Sorghum. "I haven't even been mentioned in the betting odds."—Washington Star.
"Life with me has been a failure."
"You must have had and wasted some opportunity," returned she.
"No, I have spent half my life raising whiskers to conceal my youth and the other half dyeing them to conceal my age."—Houston Post.
"He spoke extemporaneously."
"Yes, I thought it was terribly long too."—Detroit Free Press.
The customer picked up some requefort cheese from the grocer's counter and took an appraising sniff of its aroma.
"I'd like a dime's worth of this cheese."
"I'd like you to have already had it."—
American Legion Weekly.
Louise—I suppose my engagement to George came as a surprise to you?
Mabel—No, not at all. When I turned him down yesterday, he cried that my refusal would drive him to some inhuman act.—Houston Post.

Belgium is to continue its sugar-rationing scheme. It was begun as one of the numerous efforts to curtail foreign purchases, that exchange might be reduced, and to assure the population a certain amount of sugar at a reasonable price. The plan, according to the ministry of ravitaillement, is working successfully.
Uncle George Butler, of Ellsworth,

a halibut while fishing off Sisters
Ledge, and casting off his anchor rope, which he had fastened with a toggle, he enjoyed a sail about the bay, with the halibut for power. After a while the halibut got tired and Uncle George handled it in. It weighed 300 pounds.
